ORIGINAL POETRY.

SONNET,
TO MISS JOHNSON OF THE LION THEATRE.

BY J. P. P.

Not zephyr's wavy wing at eventide
Hovers more lightly o'er the nodding flowers
That perfume, ere they sleep, their Paphian bowers;
Where laughing loves in sweet recesses hide:
Not o'er the purple path of Heaven, glide
More noiseless in their pace, the rosy Hours;—
Not softer fall young Spring's first vernal showers,
Nor silent dews in climes where rain's denied;
Than thy seductive footsteps in the dance,
That seem to melt in melody away,
Until we deem, by our bewilder'd glance,
Thee, less a mortal, than of Sylph or Fay.
To us, thy swimming grace, fair maid, discloses,
A cupid fluttering o'er a bed of roses!

PRINCE TALLEYRAND AND PRINCESS PONIATOWSKI.

If it be true that a man's fate depends on his wisdom or folly, prudence or imprudence, talent or stupidity, address or mal-address, ignorance or learning,—and not, as some affirm, on his good or evil star, on opportunity, chance, or fortune,—then M. de Talleyrand is, beyond contradiction, the wisest, the most prudent, the most able, the most adroit, and the most learned of men.

His long life has been attended by honors and distinctions calculated to gratify the most sanguine ambition;—in short, by all that mankind have agreed to call good fortune.

At the first entrance on the scene of life, M. de Talleyrand adopted as his device, "Ne se passer de rien." This rule he has observed rigidly and without intermission. Throughout his whole career it is scarcely possible to trace a single mischance; or perhaps it would be more correct for us to say, that Talleyrand has fully verified the remark of Larochefoucauld—viz. that there is no mischance which a clever man may not turn to his own advantage. Certainly M. de Talleyrand has turned every thing to the best account.

The soufflet de Maubreuil, the severe apostrophe of Marshal Lannes, the failure of M. Paravey, and even his ill-assorted marriage,—circumstances which singly would have sufficed to dim the reputation or blight the fortune of the most prosperous man, all left M. de Talleyrand unscathed; or rather, he contrived to convert them from sinister to fortunate events.

He transformed Maubreuil's soufflet into a coup de poing, and thereby induced the Court to espouse his cause in the dispute. He never deigned to recollect the severe reproof addressed to him by Marshal Lannes in a moment of irritation. Indeed the Marshal's discourtesy served only to enhance the wit of Talleyrand's bon mot, "Nous appelons militaire tout ce qui n'est pas civile."

When M. de Talleyrand was informed of Paravey's failure, by which he lost two millions, his countenance remained unchanged, and he was only heard to utter a sort of indistinct hem! He manifested no other sign of emotion, and his vast loss merely prompted him to adopt a system of economy, which he had long projected, though wanting the resolution to put it into practice.

Another fact is recorded, which affords an example of M. de Talleyrand's singular composure of mind. One afternoon the little family party assembled in the saloon of the Rue St Florentin were gliding about on tip-toe, as if fearful that even the soft carpet would re-echo their footsteps. M. de Talleyrand had fallen asleep; he was taking his siesta in an arm-chair, a la Voltaire. A pamphlet was lying on the ground at his feet; to the perusal of this publication the Prince was indebted for the refreshing slumber which all were so fearful of disturbing. Some one present picked up the pamphlet, anxious to know the soporific nature of its contents. It was a malignant libel upon M. de Talleyrand.

Among the many blessings which fortune conferred on Prince Talleyrand, one which perhaps contributed more to his happiness than even the favor of Sovereigns, was the friendship of Princess Poniatowski.

In the society of the Princess, M. de Talleyrand was like a divinity, breathing incense, accepting offerings, and lulled by perpetual hymns of adoration and worship.

The greatest treat which the Princess Poniatowski could enjoy, was a rubber at whist with Prince Talleyrand. Whenever she took part in this amusement, she usually lost about twenty francs. She indulged in the singular whim of paying these debts all in new coins. After taking the pains to collect them she would put them into a new purse, which she would send to the Prince, accompanied by a little perfumed billet.

One day a dealer in nick-nacks and curiosities called on the Princess, and offered to her for sale a beautiful ebony cabinet, richly inlaid with silver. It had belonged to Louis XVI, and its value was enhanced by a very curious lock, said to have been the invention of the King himself. The Princess bought the cabinet. It happened that M. de Tallyrand was engaged to dine with her on that very day. The cabinet was placed in the most conspicuous part of the dining room. On casting his eye upon it M. de Talleyrand merely remarked, "that it is a very pretty cabinet." The Princess related its history, pointed out all that was curious in the workmanship, and observed that she attached a very high value to it. Her guest remained silent. A smile played upon the lips of the Princess, as if a happy thought had suddenly struck her. Next morning the first object that caught the eye of M. de Talleyrand in his dressing room was the beautiful cabinet. The diplomatist evinced no more surprise than if he had expected it. His thanks were couched in the following laconic terms, "Il n'y a que vous, Princesse qui sachiez faire ces choses la." Madame Poniatowski often repeated this compliment; and it made her happy for a long time after.

In whatever part of Europe M. de Talleyrand might be, the Princess wrote him a letter every day

At Valencay there was a curious clock of great value. Owing to some neglect it went out of order, and M. Talleyrand was much annoyed at not hearing the hours strike regularly. One evening, when the clock was alluded to, the Prince shrugged his shoulders with an air of dissatisfaction. This movement passed unnoticed by all except the Princess, who watched his movements as a fond mother watches those of a sick child. She immediately despatched a letter to an eminent clock-maker in Paris, and requested him to send some of his best workmen to repair the clock. In the course of a few days it struck the hours regularly. On hearing it Prince Talleyrand made no remark, and the Princess was rewarded for her trouble and expense by his accustomed apathy.

Princess Poniatowski died a short time ago. The funeral oration which Talleyrand delivered on his faithful and attached friend, was brief and characteristic. On being informed that she had departed to another and a better world, he merely exclaimed, "Pauvre Princesse!"

BOSTON MORNING POST.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1836.

Frauds upon the Elective Franchise.—The conduct, both official and unofficial, of the whigs in this city during the election, upon the right of suffrage, ought not to go unnoticed nor unpunished. The names of many democrats were omitted from the voting lists—many were fraudulently scratched off after they had been once on the lists, and some were erroneously spelt, by all of which means more or less democrats were deprived of their right to vote. The whig officers, too, who ought to preside impartially, were, in many instances, mere partizan spies, handing to whig committee men the names of such whigs as had not voted, that they might be rallied and brought to the polls. They refused to correct mistakes in the names of democrats, by which they deprived those persons of the right to vote, and did correct those in like cases on the whig side.

In printing their votes, too, on colored paper, they violated the spirit of the law, that ordains a secret ballot. The law imposed, formerly, a fine on any officer who examined the ballot of a voter, for the purpose of ascertaining how any individual voted. The blue votes of the federalits violated the whole spirit of this law.

The democrats have quite too long borne the frauds, the insults, and the contumely of these whig officers. They trample upon the rights of humble and solitary individuals, with the weight of official station and influence, and with the fury and malignity of partizan fanatics, knowing that an isolated sufferer must contend, with odds against himself, if he complain. A remedy must be applied to these wrongs, frauds, and oppressions. The democratic party, through their committees, ought to take up the cause of their friends, and demand justice of the wrong doers at the judicial tribunals, the legislature, and before the bar of public opinion.

In relation to the list of voters, all collectors of State or county taxes, by chapter 3d of the Revised Statutes, shall keep an accurate account of the names of all persons from whom they shall have received taxes, and are bound to return the same twice a year to the selectmen of the towns. If they neglect to make the returns, they are liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars; or, if they make a false return in respect to any part of said list, they are liable to a penalty of twenty dollars for every name in respect to which they have made a false return. If any man has had his name left off, let him apply to the Mayor and Aldermen to see the collectors return. If the fault be with the collectors, let the law be enforced, in every case, with the utmost rigor. If the fault be not with the collector, then go to the selectmen, and Mayor and Aldermen. The same Statute says—"The selectmen, in case they shall have duly entered on said list of voters the names of all persons who shall have been returned to them by the collectors aforesaid, shall not be answerable for any omissions in said list, nor for refusing the vote of any person whose name is not borne thereon, unless the person whose name may have been so omitted, shall, before offering his vote, furnish them with sufficient evidence of his having the legal qualifications of a voter at such meeting, and shall have requested them so to insert his name on said list."

Here, it will be seen that the Selectmen, and Mayor and Aldermen are responsible for omissions of names of those whom the collectors have handed into them, and for not putting upon the lists the names of those omitted, who furnish them with evidence of their qualifications to vote. In any case where the Mayor and Aldermen have neglected their duty in these particulars, and have violated the laws, let prosecutions be instituted against them, and if any court should show partiality in the cause or attempt to pack a jury by striking off the foreman as Judge Thatcher did Mr Snelling, let a petition for his impeachment be presented to the General Court. Above all, let the democratic party take early and effective measures to bring the subject of colored votes to the notice and action of the legislature, and let them also request the passage of some law to restrain inspectors from their infamous and insolent system of espionage and intimidation. There is an innate moral sense in the majority of mankind that will frown down and stamp with reprobation, the pitiful tricks, the frauds and petty tyranny exhibited by the whigs at the recent election. They should be held up to the public scorn, and to the execration of all honest men, and made, likewise, when the law will reach them, to feel its penalties; let us bring the united influence of the party to bear upon each individual transgressor, until punishment for past offences is inflicted, and security against future wrongs be acquired. To this end we have to suggest that the county committee take up this matter, to call upon all who have their rights violated, or their feelings outraged, to collect the facts in every case while they are yet fresh in the memmory of the parties and to adopt such modes of redress as, on a full view of the case, may be thought advisable. If money be necessary to carry on this investigation, to punish these frauds and to correct these abuses, it can easily be raised in abundance, for so laudable a purpose. We have stood their official cheating quite too long, let us now come up to the work manfully, assist and maintain the rights of the lowly and humble; peaceably if we can, but maintain them at all events and at any cost.

We find an error in our return of the votes for Ward 11, yesterday. We gave it 205, (democratic,) it should have been 219. The same Ward gave Morton 114 in 1835, making a gain since that time of nearly an hundred per cent. Messrs. Frothingham and Cowden, the two Committee men for this Ward, deserve great credit for their persevering efforts in the cause of democracy. Ward 12 beat the whigs in most elegant style—completely used them up: old democracy in this ward is a hard customer. Wards 1, 2, 3 and 6, also, fought the battle in gallant style—indeed, unwearied exertions were used throughout the city, and it might seem invidious to particularise further.

Query?—Can any one inform us whether the whigs in Ward No. 12, who kept their spirits up by pouring spirits down, after their defeat on Monday evening, were dispersed by the watch, or lodged in the watch-house? We only inquire for information.

The news of the Lowell election was brought by Capt. Ira Frye, of Lowell, to this city, by express, on Monday night, arriving an hour in advance of the whig express. Mr Frye was employed by Mr Paul R. George of this city, to whose liberality we were indebted for the early news of the result in Lowell.

Boring.—"Your Tunnel is not complete," I perceive, said a Bostonian to an Albanian. "No, Sir." "It is of little importance," said the Bostonian, "for you never would get a Dutchman through it unless you placed a barrel of sour krout at the other end." "Nor a Yankee, either," rejoined the Albanian, "unless you placed a barrel of molasses in a similar position."

☞ A Concert will be given this evening at Congress Hall—Professor Garbett will preside at the Musical Cabinet—an exhibition of the Conflagration of Moscow will conclude the entertainment.

Virginia Sure.—Fifty-one counties give a Van Buren majority of fifteen hundred and forty-five votes. The New York Times of Monday says—

"A letter from one of the best informed politicians in Virginia, assures us that our majority in that State will exceed 10,000."

A letter to the Editor of the Boston Post dated Philadelphia, Nov. 13, says—

"Letters from Richmond announce the success of the Van Buren ticket in Virginia by a handsome majority. You may rely upon this."

The Journal of Commerce of Monday says that Van Buren's majority in 78 counties is 2694, and adds—"the State has gone for Van Buren—many of his strongest counties are yet to be heard from."

The Empire State.—Van Buren majority in 38 counties, 27,479.

Republican net gain since 1834, over 7000.

The remaining 17 counties gave an aggregate federal majority in 1832, of 6449.

The majority for Governor in 1834, was still less, being 6318.

Van Buren will have from 20,000 to 25,000 in this State, says the New York Times.

☞ We have received the Albany Argus Extra, dated Sunday, 4, P. M. From this, it is certain that Mr Van Buren's majority in 49 counties in this State is 23,505.

Seven counties remain to be heard from, which will give an aggregate republican majority of from 1000 to 1500.

Our gain since 1834, is	13,871
Loss	2,530
Total Gain,	11,341

From the Journal of Commerce of Monday.

Pennsylvania.—The Pennsylvanian of this morning gives returns, either official or unofficial, from all the Counties in the State except Warren. The footing are as follows:

Van Buren	73,022
Harrison,	68,922
Van Buren majority,	4,100

This, we presume, is very nearly correct. What we said some days ago, we now repeat, that the majority will be from 3000 to 5000.

Ohio.—Harrison has possibly gained the State—in 41 counties his majority is 6368, but the New York Post of Monday evening says—

"From Ohio we learn that we have a gain in some Counties in that State where we did not look for it, and that this will balance our loss in the Reserve Counties. Before Ohio is given up, we must await further accounts. WE NOW HAVE SOME HOPE SHE WILL ADD HER VOTE TO THE DEMOCRATIC STRENGTH."

Alabama.—The Mobile Commercial Register of October 31st, has the following:—

"The mail this morning brought us the highly gratifying and important intelligence that Colonel Samuel Johnson, the Van Buren Candidate for the Seat in the Senate made vacant by the death of Constantine Perkins, Esq. has been elected by a large majority over both his whig opponents. This is indeed a thrice welcome result, as it rescues the Senate from whig thraldom, and gives us an undoubted majority in that body."

The Result so far.—The Electors of President already ascertained to be chosen are as follows:—

For Van Buren, Virginia 23—N. York 42—Pennsylvania 30—Connecticut 8—N. Hampshire 7—Maine 10—one hundred and twenty.

For Mr. Available, Maryland 10—Delaware 3—Vermont 7—twenty.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.—This Court, for the November Term, was organized yesterday, His Honor Judge MORTON, presiding. There being a case of homicide to be submitted to the Grand Jury—viz. Riley and Stewart, held to answer for the death of M'Nally—His Honor delivered a long and interesting charge upon the subject, and laid down with great perspicuity the general principles of law, relating to the various species of homicide—from murder in the first degree, to justifiable killing. Towards the close, the Grand Jury were charged not to find any bill, unless the unexplained evidence before them made out such a case as would induce them to convict, if they were sitting in the capacity of trial jurors. Under this direction, it is not probable that the prisoners referred to, will be indicted for murder; and if for manslaughter, the trial will be had before the Municipal Court next month.

POLICE COURT.—Abigail Smith is distinctly the hardest captain that ever trained in Ann street, where she was arrested on Monday night, by Deacon-Captain-Constable-Watchman Barrett. It appeared that Abigail and another "rare ripe" had fought till they had not a stich of clothing to their backs. Abigail had received a black eye, in revenge for which she simply knocked one of her antagonist's teeth down her throat. The evidence being all in, His Honor asked her "what she had to say in reply."

Abigail.—What have I got to say? Why all I have to say is, that they are all a pack of liars, and I'll make them sweat for it the first time I can get at them. I suppose I am the highest tempered woman in the city, and when I am in a passion, I may appear to be drunk. I am a New Yorker, and I'll die for her, sooner than hear a word against my native city. Them is my principles, and I'll make no apologies to any living man, nor dead one neither, though I am a widow. If you do your best, you can only punish me according to law, and I don't care that for them, [snapping her fingers.]

Court.—Two months in the House of Correction.

Abigail.—How you talk! Very much obliged to you.

A Solomonism. A new term, but we apprehend, not an inapt one. The New Court House is built of smooth granite, while Tudor's buildings, the great nest of lawyers, right opposite, is built of stone as ragged as rocks can be. The other day, a country man, whose ample drab great coat betokened, that he valued comfort above fashion, halted between the two aforesaid structures, and asked F,— what each was designed for. "That" said F. pointing to the Court House, "Is the New Court House, and the other is Tudor's Building, occupied by lawyers." "Ah," said the country-man, "so I should think, for smooth is the place of judgment, but rough is the place of advice."

"The broken reed."—"I whipped Reed, the Constable, the other day," said a boaster to a comrade. "Did you so?" rejoined the other, with a pause: "Well, I believe I have read, somewhere, that 'the Reed is shaken by wind."

Florida.—We now learn with great satisfaction that there are a plenty of provisions and forage at the mouth of the river, and a considerable quantity at Graham's Camp, and more on transportation there.

The Governor is in feeble health, but he is determined to enter the field and make every sacrifice, in order to ensure success. He has appointed Major Pierce Colonel, and given him the command of the Creek volunteers. This gallant officer has received from the President the Brevet rank of Lieut. Col. as a reward for his meritorious services.

The campaigne will open immediately and be prosecuted with vigor. In a few days we shall hear something decisive.

The U. S. ships Peacock and Enterprise from Siam and Cochin China, arrived at Macao on the 26th of May. The captain of the latter vessel died at Macao on the 3d of June and was buried on the 4th. Mr Roberts, commercial agent, also died on the 11th, and was interred on the 12th June.—Both vessels sailed from China on the 23d June, destination unknown.—Merc. Jour.

Congressional Elections. Mr Parmenter, (democrat,) has been elected in No. 4, over Mr Hoar, (whig) Mr Hastings, (whig,) has been chosen in No. 9, as successor to Mr Jackson. He was opposed by Mr A. H. Everett. Mr Phillips, (whig,) has been re-elected in No. 2, Cushing in No. 3, and Borden, (demo.) in No. 10—in No. 12 there was no opposition to J. Q. Adams. Mr Reed is re-elected for No 11. The other districts we have not heard from.

Senatorial Elections.—The democrats have chosen in Middlesex their whole ticket, viz:—Leonard M. Parker, Wm. Livingston, Reuben Bacon, Stephen Pope, and Francis Bowman. Also, in Norfolk, B. P. Williams, Abel Cushing, E. Blake.—In Bristol, Seth Whitmarsh, Henry Williams and James H. Handy, all democrats, are chosen. Plymouth sends two democrats—Abel Kingman and John B. Turner—in all thirteen. We shall probably carry a portion of our ticket in Essex, and our friends in Hampden felt confident before the election of the success of Harvey Chapin and Orrin Sage. If Berkshire sends Joseph Fitch and Dr Childs, the democrats may be able to dispute with the whigs the control of the next Senate. The whole number is forty.

Democratic Representatives Chosen.—Charlestown.—Timothy Fletcher, Dexter Bowman, Charles Thompson, John Stevens, Abijah Monroe, Samuel Poor, Stephen Wiley, J. F. Boyd, John Runey, Edwin Munroe.

Randolph.—Zenas French, Jr. Alvan Kidder, Samuel Thayer 2d.

Lowell.—Joseph W Mansur, Stephen Goodhue, James Wilson, James K. Fellows, William S Merrill, Josiah G. Peabody, Jesse Clement, Josiah G Abbott, Joseph M Doe, William N Owen, Charles Hastings, Gardner K Eastman, Samuel Clark, Samuel Willard, John Mead, Loring Pickering and Richard Fowler.

Woburn.—Stephen Evans, Henry Flagg, Col. Leonard Thompson.

Malden.—Timothy Bailey, Geo. Emerson, Rev Sylvanus Cobb.

Haverhill.—Nathan Webber, Elbridge G Eaton, Ward Haseltine, James Davis, Joseph Ayer.

Sandwich.—Abram Nye—voted to send three more.

Halifax.—Jabez P Thompson.

Only one Representative was chosen in Newburyport, out of 19 candidates, and none in Newbury.

We are sorry that our returns of the names of the Democratic Represeutatives are so meagre—but few of our correspondents have reported them in giving the number of votes.

☞ The return of votes taken on the Amendment of the Constitution, are, as far as received, nearly unanimous for the alteration.

Lowell has done nobly! Three cheers for her.—The democrats there deserve immortal honor for their exertions; they are of the genuine stamp, and do their work up like men. The vote stood for Morton 908—Everett 864—for Osgood, (Congress,) 894.

SUMMARY OF FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

Dreadful effects of terrifying children.—A little child between 6 and 7, at the Female Seminary, near Hackney, was confined in a dark cellar; where, in spite of her screams, she was left to remain till morning, when she was found in a state of complete idiotcy.

A lady living near Monkwearmouth, who at the age of four, while playing with her sister, accidentally got two pebbles in her ear, carried one of the same for 44 years, when it made its way out.

Sir Frederick Johnstone, during a sporting excursion of 19 days, on the hills in the neighborhood of Lewis, (Scotland,) killed with his rifle in that time, no less than 30 fine red deer.

Cats are said to have nine lives. One was lately extricated from the ruins of the fire near London Bridge, where she had been buried for three weeks amidst some hops. On reaching the air she quickly recovered.

The seines employed by the French fishing smacks in pursuit of herring on the coast of Scotland, are some of them 1000 fathoms long, and are drawn out of the water by the capstan.

Shipwreck.—The Philadelphia packet MOHAWK, ran on to Toddy Rock last night at 10 o'clock, and went to pieces. The crew took the boats and landed this morning, and were sent up to the city in the Quarantine Cutter.—They saved nothing but their lives.—Trans.

From Spain.—By the ship Xylon, Capt. Coffin from Cadiz, the Messrs. Topliffs have received Gibraltar papers to the 10th of Oct. and Cadiz papers to the 12th of that month.

We learn from these papers that Cordova has been taken possession of by the rebels. Great preparations were making for the defence of Sevilla—and the inhabitants of various districts threatened with invasion, were flocking to Cadiz for security. The situation of Malaga, is represented as exceedingly critical.

The Queen's army of the left, is represented as in a bad situation—being too weak to advance with the enemies on both flanks, and without means of subsistence on the spot where it was stationed. In Catalonia, on the contrary, the Queen's forces were represented as having a decided superiority—and the renowned Moroto, had been compelled to seek shelter in the mountains.

Accident.—On Friday afternoon, says the Pennsylvania Sentinel, a horse, in the vicinity of the Falls of Schuylkill, ran away with an open carriage, containing two ladies, a gentleman and boy. When the horse started, the gentleman gallantly leaped from the vehicle, leaving his fair companions to their fate. The horse rushed onward at full speed. The boy jumped out and escaped without injury. The ladies were both thrown out with considerable violence, and were seriously injured. Fortunately, Dr McClintock, a skilful practitioner of the city, was in the neighborhood; and the sufferers received immediate aid and are doing well.

From Key West.—By an arrival at Charleston we learn that the Mexican armed brig Independence, Kelly, from Baltimore, for Vera Cruz, with all her ammunition and stores, for a six month's cruise, went ashore on Sambrerara Reef, 23d ult. She was got off by the wreckers U. States and Single Sailor, after throwing over part of her cargo, and was taken to Key West.

Grand Bank are in demand, and stock not large—prices have been nearly stationary—they sell at 3.25 about as readily as any cash article. Hake have declined—sales to some extent a $2, and we are informed that some lots are offered below that. Mackerel have been more affected by the scarcity of money than any other article. Within three weeks the decline has been 1.50 pr bbl. The arrivals for a month past have been rather greater than was expected. Sales of No 1, at 3.25 a 3.50, No 2, 7.25 a 7 50, and No. 3, at 5 25 a 550. The holders of No. 3, separate are not inclined to sell at these rates. No Shad here, and quotations nominal.

FLOUR—We have to make a considerable advance upon our last reported quotations.
